Methodology

Project procedures

All design work is carried out on the basis of a client brief following which we present a written proposal. Budgets, project phases and production schedules are agreed in advance of commencing research or design work.

Holistic approach

We usually work on a turnkey basis. We prefer to be the client's single point of contact throughout a particular project including commissioning other professional services such as photography, copywriting, translation and printing as we meticulously manage and control quality at every stage of a project and ensure that delivery made is on time.

Project management

All major projects are managed by a director, a senior designer and a production manager. This ensures that multiple skills are put to use and additionally we encourage clients to have direct access to key people.
